Casper Nienaber decided to turn his passion for reloading and shooting into a full-time occupation by making his services – the handloading and/or reloading of metallic cartridge ammunition – available to the public. His company, MAMBA, complies with all the mandatory requirements and licences needed under the law.

There are a few ways that MAMBA can develop loads for you:

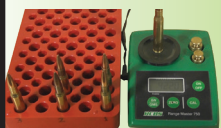

- Casper offers load development, where he physically loads for and shoots your rifle to determine the appropriate formula.
- He is also available to simply reload ammunition (a customer's) preferred load, should that be the customer's only requirement.
- He will also handload different bullet/load combinations for customers to shoot and test in their rifles – to save them time and money.
- Casper may be approached for telephonic reloading assistance and/or analysis of the customer's reloading data with the aid of the QuickLOAD computer program.

This high-quality hand-loaded ammunition will be purpose-made:

To your exact requirements and specifications.

- For exact fit and function in your rifle.
- To ensure your rifle is functioning according to its full ability and potential.
- To best support the purpose for which the rifle will be used, for example target shooting, hunting or a combination thereof.
- Using specifically selected components as specified for the purpose.
- To achieve optimum performance from these components.
- Consistency.
- Reliability.
- Guaranteed to deliver the results you expect.
- And most importantly – for your pure enjoyment.

Ballpark costs:

Load development, analysis and shooting – R200/hour
Handloading (components excluded) – R15/round
